Worksheet 1

COMPREHENSION

[Sherlock Holmes, Dr Watson and Inspector Lestrade waited on a foggy night to catch a culprit as the fog drifted away.]

A sound of quick steps broke the silence of the moor... The steps grew louder, and through the fog, as through a curtain, there stepped the man whom we were awaiting. He looked round him in surprise as he emerged into the clear, starlit night. Then, he came swiftly along the path, passed close to where we lay, and went on up the long slope behind us. As he walked, he continually glanced over either shoulder, like a man who is ill at ease...

Suddenly, Holmes' eyes started forward in a rigid, fixed stare, and his lips parted in amazement. At the same instant, Lestrade gave a yell of terror and threw himself face downward upon the ground. I sprang to my feet, my inert hand grasping my pistol, my mind paralysed by the dreadful shape which had sprung out upon us from the shadows of the fog. A hound it was, an enormous coal-black hound, but not such a hound as mortal eyes have ever seen. Fire burst from its open mouth, its eyes glowed with a smouldering glare, its muzzle and hackles and dewlap were outlined in flickering flame. Never in the delirious dream of a disordered brain could anything more savage, more appalling, more hellish be conceived than that dark form and savage face which broke upon us out of the wall of fog.

With long bounds, the huge black creature was leaping down the track, following hard upon the footsteps of our friend... Then, Holmes and I both fired together, and the creature gave a hideous howl, which showed that one at least had hit him... But that cry of pain from the hound had blown all our fears to the winds... If we could wound him, we could kill him.
