COMPREHENSION

Mrs Sharma bought a mixie for her kitchen. The shopkeeper had explained her about it in detail. There were two jars and a small goblet. Each one had a different blade. One was for making juices, one for cutting up things into small bits and the goblet was for grinding everything into a paste. He gave her a small book in which it was all written down. Mrs Sharma was very happy. She put tomatoes in one jar and put it on the mixie. Then, she plugged it in and switched on the plug. She did not know that the mixie was 'on'.
