			Once upon a time, there was a terrible fire in a forest. All the anima were running away. A group of monkeys also ran. They jumped from														om branch to branch on the trees. Then they came to a stream and leap														apt across that too. But one small monkey could not jump because th															the stream was wide. So, the Monkey King wrapped his tail around or														one branch and swung to a tree across the stream, grabbing a branch w															/ith his paw. He asked the little monkey to walk over him and cross t															the stream. The Monkey King became the best friend of the little monke															ey!.
